Employee fire evacuation instructions for permeant or temporary buildings

On hearing the firm alarm;

- 1 Turn off your equipment / make safe your work area if safe to do so.
- 2 You must leave the room & building by the nearest safe exit.
- 3 You should walk, not run.
- 4 You must go to your assembly point.
- 5 You must stay at your assembly point until you are told that you may leave.
- 6 You must not collect any possessions from another area.
- 7 You must not under any circumstances, return to the building until you are told that you may.

If a fire starts in your area;

- 1 Sound the fire alarm.
- 2 Attack the fire if safe and trained to do so.
- 3 If you cannot extinguish the fire make note of the location and the material involved
- 4 Evacuate to your assembly point.
- 5 Notify your fire warden of all the facts.

First aid can be obtained at the assembly point.

Fire marshals and Fire wardens are not there to be heroes; you are not expected to put yourself at unreasonable risk.

First aid facilities must be provided and be adequate in number. The first aid boxes should be conveniently located and be easily accessible. The number of first aid boxes present is dependant on the work activity and associated hazards in individual areas.

The contents of the first aid boxes are dependant on the number of people in the particular areas. The content requirements are set out on the check sheets as per the safety, health and welfare at work (general application) regulations, 2007.

The following check sheet has been drafted to review the first aid facilities and to ensure they are adequate in number and contents by area and department.

The first aid boxes are listed on the check sheets in this procedure. The first aid boxes will be checked to ensure they are in place and properly stocked. The first aid boxes should be accessible and clearly identified in their location. Note should be made of this during the audit and corrective action taken where required.

The above table lists the location of the first aid boxes. The people listed on the table above are responsible for ensuring the first aid box is properly stocked and located in an accessible area in each area. Each first aid box will be reviewed by the responsible person monthly to replace the items used since the previous check. This check will be recorded on the check sheets detailed in this procedure.

Employees ill or injured while at work or attending a show will receive prompt and efficient first-aid treatment and further medical treatment where required. To ensure this, properly trained First-Aid Staff are available on the grounds at all times, and properly equipped boxes have been provided and sited throughout the venue.

All First-Aid Personnel are fully trained prior to being appointed and will, at regular intervals as required by legislation attend a First-Aid Course and maintain the First-Aid Certificate.

All First-Aid Personnel will make themselves available on demand to attend injuries or illness.

All treatments and injuries will be recorded in the First-Aid Log which will be retained in the First-Aid Box and copies of the reports will be passed to the show committee chair person concerned within 24 hours. This first aid log will be reviewed to determine the need for accident investigation.

The show committee chair person will, upon receipt of reports of an injury causing an injury of a person, inform the health & safety coordinator to instigate an investigation of the accident in accordance with show procedures. The names of all occupational first - aiders are displayed on the list below.
